Student Term-Time Documentation for Right to Work

Student Term-Times

The Home Office requires that international students submit evidence of their term times alongside their RTW documentation when applying to work in the UK.

Evidence of term-times must be current, include the student's University name along with a break-down of their term and vacation dates for the relevant academic year(s) of their course.

This may be a screen grab/print out of the University's academic calendar or a letter from the university containing this information.

- ✓ If a Masters/PHD postgraduate is on a full time one year course TrustID can accept the course start and end dates as evidence without term/vacation dates specified. TrustID require term and vacation dates if the course is over the 1-year time period.
- ✓ Please note that TrustID only require ONE document to feature the university name. For example, a university letter can be submitted alongside the term dates if they do not feature the university name.

Acceptable RTW Documentation

Share Code (Most Common)

- This is a 9-character code made up of numbers and letters, beginning with W.
- This code can be entered on our system under 'Online RTW Check', or by candidates using a Guest Link.
- This is the most common form of RTW documentation for international students.
- Students will have an up to 6-month grace period from the date of their course completion until their share code expires.

Passport and Visa Combination

- A student visa will state D-STUDENT as the visa type.
- The visa and the passport the visa is in must be submitted together.
- If the candidate's visa has expired, it is no longer valid for Right to Work. They will need to go to the Home Office to obtain a share code.

Positive Verification Notice

- If a candidate cannot obtain a share code or if their share code has expired, you will need to use the Employer Checking Service, via the gov.uk website in order to obtain a PVN for the candidate. If granted, this will give them the Right to Work for 6 months whilst they obtain a share code or further documentation.
- The 6-month grace period rule does NOT apply to PVNs. Students will often obtain PVNs if they are applying for a graduate visa (they may have completed their course). This means that they could have completed their course more than 6 months before the PVN expiry date.

TrustID Can Accept

✓ Evidence of term-times documents can be accepted if they clearly state the University name, are current and in-date, regardless of how far into the future they have evidenced. As long as the term-times dates evidence the current date when processing the RTW check, they can be accepted with a term-time follow up date.

✓ We now accept 'expected' and confirmed course completion dates providing this aligns with the candidate's grace period / leave to remain, and regardless of when the Term Time letter is dated.

ALL DAY

TrustID Cannot Accept

✓ University letters only stating the start and end date of the course (if it is over a year)

Documents where the website link is given instead of the term dates (please instead submit a screenshot of the dates)

✓ The course graduation date cannot be included as a term date

University class timetables.

If the candidate has completed their course:

They can submit:

- Term dates which evidence up to the course completion date / end of their course.
- Their course completion/graduation certificate stating their name, university and completion/award date.
- A letter from the university stating their name and official course completion date.
- ✓ A letter evidencing an expected end date, which has passed.

If the candidate is on placement:

They can submit:

- A letter from the placement company stating the university name and start and end date of the placement.
- A letter from the university stating the placement company and start and end date of the placement

If the candidate has completed their course EARLY:

They will need to contact their university to request the Home Office updates their leave to remain. The Home Office will update their share code end date.
